

8th March 2013

He was a cool dad. Adventuresome yet cautious and practical, he thus discovered lots, and encouraged others to follow on. A first-rate cook, story-teller, friend, and companion. He had a good eye for quality. He could ride, he could ski, he could swim, he could bicycle, he could chill with cats and dogs and wildlife, he could walk for hours, he spoke at least three languages, and was a good shot. He could sleep anywhere. He seldom spoke an ill word to anyone. He'll be remembered fondly.

Gary Sunbeam,
Manchester, Greater Manchester